

Born, raised and educated in Zimbabwe, Victoria Mapxashike is in the Legal Profession. Born, raised and first educated in Zimbabwe and then further educated in France, James Jijide is a consultant in Reproductive Health and HIV/AIDS.

What the two co-authors, who together have already written and have had published several Para-psychological books, share, is a passion in the Para-Sciences which, among others, include the research findings and knowledge from Mediums, Mystics, Oracle speakers, Para-Psychologists, Herbal alchemists, Dice readers, Crystal ball readers, Traditional healers, Dream interpreters and Bone throwers, just to mention a few experts in the field of Para-Science.

Para-psychologists themselves, James Jijide and Victoria Mapxashike, have undertaken an intensive 3-year Program in Para-psychology which consisted of the following Modules: instincts; telepathy; relationship with nature, mammals, reptiles and cosmic bodies; recovery of lost genetic capacities; and mysticism.

Para-psychological Guide to Accident-Free-Travel for Frequent Traveler Namesakes (Vol.1) is a Para-psychological Accident-Free-Travel Alert for the benefit of all Namesakes. The High Travel Alert specifies the days, weeks and months of the year and the modes of transport which Namesakes must avoid in their travel schedules in order to avert accidents.

The guide contains more than 630 names, classified into about 315 males namesakes and 315 female namesakes all arranged in an alphabetical order. For his or her own safety, each namesake is advised against using a specified means of transport on a designated day, week and month of the year.

The aim of this Guide is to complement the numerous safe travel efforts and programs launched by various private and public travel safety agencies all over the world for the benefit of the traveling public.

Para-Psychological Guide to Accident-Free-Travel

This Guidebook is dedicated to the late Mr. Pio Samson Sandram Jijide, the late Mr. Gillam Uledi-Kamanga, the late Mr. Frank Kumanguwo and Mr. Gunduza all of whom were experienced heavy-duty truck drivers and frequent travelers.

Very good friends, both Mr. Pio Samson Sandram Jijide and Mr. Frank Kumanguwo served in North Africa and Asia during the 2nd World War.

After the war, while Mr. Jijide and Mr. Uledi-Kamanga died of natural causes, Mr. Kumanguwo was killed in a truck crash.

As for Mr. Gunduza, at the time of the sending of this Guidebook to the printers, it was not known whether he was still alive or not.

Foreword

Most frequent travelers receive some form of vibes or premonitions about an impending travel disaster but often, they are either ignorant of their significance or they totally ignore them until it is too late. Para-Psychological Guide to Accident-Free-Travel for Frequent Traveler Namesakes has done all the groundwork and homework for the benefit of the frequent traveler.

In the same way manuals guide technicians, holy books inspire prayer warriors, textbooks guide teachers and students, dictionaries guide learners, compasses steer sailing ships and the internet guides surfers, Para-Psychological Guide to Accident-Free-Travel for Frequent Travel Namesakes para-psychologically guides frequent travelers on safe travel days, weeks, months as well as on safe modes of transport.

Though still very young and therefore still going through the experimental stages, the Para-Science of Accident-Free-Travel comes on the transport scene full of promise and hope for the millions of frequent travelers who crisscross the towns, cities, oceans, deserts, valleys, mountains, countries and continents of the globe with doubts regarding their safety.

Preface

It is not an exaggeration that before they travel, many travelers say a word or two of prayer for a safe journey. Some carry on their person crosses or effigies of deities or of patron saints believed to be guardians of safe travel.

When families and relatives bid farewell to their beloved ones and their friends and wish them a pleasant journey, it is granted that their main concern is safety.

However, what both the travelers and the well wishers cannot guarantee with any absolute certainty is 100% traveling safety and convenience for the travelers even if they may have total confidence in the protection of a supreme being and in the efficiency of today's technology.

But it is accepted that even the supremacy of modern engineering and the power of prayer cannot offer 100% safety and convenience.

Against this backdrop, what all travelers in general and frequent travelers in particular should do is to consult this Guidebook in the same way they consult the meteorological report and then make their travel arrangements according to the recommendations of this Guide. The safe travel well-wishers are also advised to consult the Guidebook so that they are empowered to wisely advise their traveling beloved ones on what day, week and month and by how they should not travel so that they dodge any form of travel mishap scheduled by the laws of the universe for that day, week or month for that particular mode of transport.

In the absence of such crucial travel warning information, Para-Psychological Guide to Accident-Free-Travel for Frequent Traveler Namesakes (Vol.1) becomes timely, relevant and practically handy.

User-friendly, clear, straightforward and non intrusively personal, this easy-to carry and easy-to-consult Guidebook is a must not only for the frequent traveler but also for his or her parents, relatives, friends, workmates, employers and acquaintances, among others.

Introduction

Firstly, all air pilots, automobile drivers, ship captains, train drivers, desert, snow and forest hikers as well mountain climbers receive strenuous training in their different fields of profession, operation and activity prior to passing proficiency theoretical and practical tests which lead to their obtaining professional or proficiency certificates in these areas.

Secondly, all governments of the world and all their respective Air Traffic Safety Boards, Road Traffic Safety Agencies, Maritime Traffic Safety Organizations, Railroad Traffic Safety Associations, Desert, Snow, Forest and Mountain Safety Groups have in place clear and strict safety rules and regulations for all the persons traveling by air, by road, by sea, by rail and for all those people traveling through deserts, forests and crossing mountains so that all these people are as safe as possible.

In spite of the existence of all these rules, regulations, safety skills training programs and general safety precaution warnings and measures, worldwide, many people are killed annually in air, snow, sea, forest, mountain, rail and road accidents. Many more people are maimed annually in air, snow, sea, rail and road accidents worldwide.

Travel accidents occur when transport rules and regulations are violated through human error, carelessness and negligence. Travel accidents also occur when mechanical or technical faults occur. Travel accidents also occur when there are adverse weather conditions. Finally, a combination of some or of all the situations described above can trigger an accident.

But when none of the above possible causes is evident, it is the violation of the safety travel rules and regulations of the universe which is responsible for the accident. As most of the universe safety travel rules and regulations are not known nor understood by the ordinary mind and ordinary intelligence, obeying them is almost impossible.

Having observed and studied the phenomenon of traveling accidents for many years, Para-Scientists have begun to make a breakthrough and it is from this breakthrough that they have a glimpse of the Para-psychological pattern of travel accidents. It is out of this crucial information that Para-Scientists are beginning to be able to forecast impending travel accidents and the impending accident calendar. On the basis of the information provided by the calendar, they are able to issue a Travel Alert. Para-psychological Guide to Accident-Free-Travel for Frequent Traveler Namesakes (Vol.1) is a product of one such research.

Aim of the Guide

The aim of this Guidebook is to enhance the frequent traveler's awareness regarding safe travel arrangements and preparations to minimize nasty surprises along the way.

The next aim is to boost the frequent traveler's traveling confidence in the sense that as long as the frequent traveler knows that he or she is traveling during the right day, week and month, he or she can relax in the assurance that nothing wrong will happen during the travel.

Instructions on how to use this Guidebook

Arranged in an alphabetical order, the frequent traveler's first name will lead him or her to the page which bears that name. All the travel alert information for that frequent traveler will be found on that page.

Disclaimer

The scope of the Travel Alerts in this Guidebook is confined to the days, weeks and months as well as to the accompanying names as specified in the Para-psychological Guidebook. Any travel accidents which might occur outside those specified days, weeks and months fall beyond the boundaries of this Guidebook.

The accuracy of the Travel Alerts, like in the case of Meteorological forecasts, is not 100%. For this reason, neither the author nor the Publishers can be held responsible for any inaccurate Travel advice. Neither the author nor the publishers can be held responsible therefore for any travel injuries or deaths which might occur during a given Travel Alert.

The respect for the Guidebook's Travel Alerts is voluntary. For this reason, neither the author nor the publishers will accept responsibility for influencing any frequent traveler for failing to attend to his or her business because he or she would not travel as advised by a given Travel Alert.
